NC State's Carolyn Argentati Named Frye Leadership Institute Fellow

Carolyn Argentati, NCSU Libraries' Donald E. Moreland Associate Director for Public Services, has been named a 2003 Frye Leadership Institute Fellow. Entrance to the program is both prestigious and highly competitive.

The Frye Leadership Institute provides an intensive two-week residential program held in early June for faculty, librarians, and university information technology professionals who aspire to more significant leadership roles. The program, which focuses on creative leadership and the qualities needed to confront strategic changes in higher education, does not end once the residential portion is completed. Participants go on to conduct a year-long practicum to explore, at their own organization, some of the key issues raised. Sponsored by the Council of Library and Information Resources (CLIR), EDUCAUSE, the Woodruff Foundation, and the program's site, Emory University (Atlanta, Georgia), the Institute accepts about forty Fellows from a pool of hundreds of applicants. Full information is given at URL: <http://www.fryeinstitute.org/about.asp>.

NC State Vice Provost and Director of Libraries Susan K. Nutter said, "It's an honor to be selected competitively from among a pool of talented nominees and applicants who have a commitment to, and talent for, leadership within higher education. I know that Carolyn is looking forward to the intellectual challenge of the Institute and will make the most of this opportunity for discussion, reflection, and learning among individuals who will be responsible for transforming the management of scholarly information in academia."

The NCSU Libraries offers leading-edge resources and services from its central library, the D. H. Hill Library, and four branch libraries. In all, the Libraries has a collection of more than 3.1 million volumes, nearly 53,000 print and electronic serials, and hundreds of databases, with emphasis on science, engineering, and technology.
