

Another initiative will identify and collect records of agricultural leaders, organizations, and businesses involved in agriculture or agribusiness activities in North Carolina. The library will gather unique source materials in fields such as tobacco cultivation and manufacturing, hog farming, poultry production, and dairy farming. These resources will permit students and researchers to explore major developments in the state's economic history.

Additionally, a virtual exhibit by Special Collections will enable off-site perusal of materials displayed in the exhibit, as well as the opportunity to read The Sodfather, Graham's recollections of his career as "a friend of agriculture."

The NCSU Libraries would like to thank and acknowledge: Nicholas Paul of the Cooperative Grading Service and Melanie Edwards of the Division of Marketing, and the North Carolina Department of Agriculture and Consumer Service for their research and design efforts, which made this exhibit possible.

This exhibit was made possible by generous donations from:

Biltmore Estates Winery
Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corporation
College of Agriculture and Life Sciences, North Carolina State University
Food Lion
Friends of the Library of North Carolina State University
North Carolina Pork Council, Inc.
Philip Morris U.S.A.
Santa Fe Natural Tobacco Company
Universal Leaf Foundation
Wolfpack Club

The Sodfather

A Friend of Agriculture in North Carolina

Sponsored by
The NCSU Libraries