APPENDIX B.—INSTRUCTIONS TO ENUMERATORS.

POPULATION SCHEDULE.

Entries on the schedule.—The illustrative example (Form 9–275) shows the manner in which the entries upon the schedule should be made. These entries should be made at the time of the enumeration, and all omissions or mistakes should be avoided.

Definite answers.—Try to get a definite answer to each inquiry according to the instructions herein given. But if after every effort you cannot obtain the desired information write "Un" (for unknown).

The census day.—All returns on the population schedule shall relate to the census day, January 1, 1920. Thus persons dying after January 1 should be enumerated, but persons born after January 1 should not be enumerated thereon.

Persons who move into your district after January 1, for permanent residence, should, however, be enumerated by you, unless you find that they have already been enumerated in the district from which they came.

WHO ARE TO BE ENUMERATED IN YOUR DISTRICT.

This is the most important and difficult matter you will have to determine. Therefore study with especial care the following rules and instructions.

Usual place of abode.—The law provides that all persons shall be enumerated at their "usual place of abode" on January 1, 1920. This means the place where they may be said to live or belong, or the place which is their home.

As a rule the usual place of abode is the place where a person regularly sleeps. Note, however, that where a man happens to sleep at the time of the enumeration may not be the place where he regularly sleeps, as more fully explained below.

Residents absent on census day.—There will be a certain number of persons having their usual place of abode in your district who are absent at the time of the enumeration. These you must include and enumerate, obtaining the facts regarding them from their families, relatives, acquaintances, or other persons able to give this information. Thus if a member of any family in your district is temporarily away from home on a visit, or on business, or traveling for pleasure, or attending school or college, or sick in a hospital, such absent person should be enumerated and included with the other members of the family. But a son or daughter permanently located elsewhere should not be included with the family.

In the great majority of cases, however, it is more than likely that the names of these absent members of the family will not be given you by the person furnishing the information, unless particular attention is paid to the question. Therefore, in filling in the enumeration of a family you should in all cases, therefore, specifically ask the question as to whether there are any such absent members as above described.

Classes not to be enumerated in your district.—There will be, on the other hand, a certain number of persons present and perhaps lodging and sleeping in your district at the time of the enumeration who do not have their usual place of abode there. These you should not enumerate unless it is practically certain that they will not be enumerated anywhere else. As a rule, therefore, you should not enumerate or include with the members of the family you are enumerating any of the following classes:

Persons visiting this family;

Transients or lodgers who have some other usual or permanent place of abode;

Students or children living or boarding with this family in order to attend school, college, or other educational institution in the locality, but not regarding the place as their home;

Persons who take their meals with this family, but lodge or sleep elsewhere;

Servants, apprentices, or other persons employed by this family and working in the house or on the premises, but not sleeping there; or

Any person who was formerly in this family, but has since become an inmate of an asylum, almshouse, home for the aged, reformatory, prison, or any other institution in which the inmate may remain for long periods of time.

Such persons will, with occasional exceptions, be enumerated elsewhere, at their homes or usual places of abode, which in some cases may be in your district, but more often will be in other districts.

When to make exceptions.—In deciding whether to make an exception to the rule and enumerate in your district a person who is present there but whose usual place of abode is elsewhere, the question to be considered is whether or not that person is represented at his or her home or usual place of abode by a husband, wife, father, mother, son, daughter, or other relative, or by a housekeeper, servant, or landlady, or by anybody else who will attend to the wants of the person for whom you are entering the information, or who will answer your inquiries.

If not so represented, and, therefore, likely to be omitted at his usual place of abode, he should be enumerated by you.

Servants.—Servants, laborers, or other employees who live within the family and sleep in the same house or on the premises should be enumerated with the family.

Boarders and lodgers.—Boarders (that is, persons eating and sleeping at the same place) or lodgers should be enumerated at the place where they are residing or lodging, if they are there permanently or for reasons of a permanent nature—for instance, if this is their usual place of abode while carrying on their regular occupation or business.

Transients or lodgers, on the other hand, should not be enumerated at their temporary rooming or lodging place unless it is practically certain that they will not be enumerated anywhere else. This refers to persons rooming or lodging for a short time at a hotel or boarding or lodging house or with a private family while temporarily absent from their usual places of abode.

But transient boarders or lodgers who have some permanent home or usual place of abode should be enumerated where they happen to be stopping at the time of the census. This applies in particular to the lodgers in cheap one-night lodging houses who, for the most part, represent a floating population, having no permanent home.

Construction camps.—Members of railroad, canal, or other construction camps, convict camps, State farms, workers by convict, road camps, or other places which have shifting populations, composed of persons with no fixed places of abode, should be enumerated where found, except in so far as certain members of such camps may have some other usual place of abode where they are likely to be returned for enumeration or the camp itself may already have been enumerated in some other districts.

Students at school or college.—If there is a school college, or other educational institution in your district which has students from outside of your district, you should enumerate only those students who have their regular places of abode in your district.

Inmates of medical or surgical hospitals.—Most inmates of medical and surgical hospitals are there only for temporary treatment and have other regular places of abode. Therefore you should not report as a resident of the hospital any patient unless he claims to have no other usual place of abode from which he is likely to be reported.

Inmates of prisons, asylums, and institutions other than hospitals.—Prisoners, insane, insane asylum, a criminal asylum, or other institution for the insane, or a lunatic asylum, or any other place, or any person who is in jail, almshouse, an asylum or home (sometimes called hospital) for the insane, hoi, blind, deaf, incurable, or feebleminded, a soldiers' home, a home for the aged, or any similar institution in which inmates usually remain for long periods of time, all the inmates of such an institution should be enumerated as of your district. It is specially noted that in the case of jails the prisoners should be there enumerated however short the term of sentence.

To prevent duplication, do not report outside of the institution any person who was formerly with a family in your district but who at the time of the enumeration is an inmate of such institution as above described, even though that person may have entered the institution only the day before the census day.

Persons engaged in railway service or traveling.—Railroad men, conductors, expressmen, railroad employees, or any other persons engaged in railway service or traveling, such as salesmen, brokers, etc., should not be enumerated, excepting only those who are on business trips.

Additional note.—It is not intended to enumerate as residents of your district any persons who, although in your district, are merely passing through, as, for instance, by train or by automobile.

Persons who may be in your district temporarily on January 1, 1920, are not to be enumerated by you unless they claim to have no other regular place of abode within the limits of the United States. But if their homes are in your district, they should be enumerated there, even though absent on January 1, 1920. Sailors on voyages are to be reported at their land homes, no matter how long they have been absent, if the boat is supposed to be still alive.

Soldiers, sailors, marines, and civilian employees of the United States.—In order to avoid duplication, soldiers, sailors, and marines belonging to the Army or Navy of the United States, and civilian employees of the United States, are treated as resident at their posts of duty or places where they are regularly employed. If, therefore, any family in your district reports that one of its members is a soldier, sailor, marine, or civilian employee of the United States at a post of duty or station elsewhere, you should not report him as a member of that family. If, however, any civilian employee of the United States is regularly employed in your district and has his usual place of abode, or has his headquarters there, you should report him as a resident of your district and a member of the family with which he has his usual place of abode, even though he may be temporarily absent on an official or other trip.

Citizens abroad at time of the enumeration.—Any citizen of the United States who is a member of a family living in your district, but abroad temporarily at the time of the enumeration, should be enumerated as of your district. It does not matter how long the absence abroad is continued, provided the person intends to return to the United States. This instruction applies only to citizens of the United States and not to aliens who have left this country, as nothing definite can be known as to whether such aliens intend to return.

Crews of foreign vessels.—The officers and crew of a foreign ship only temporarily in a harbor are not to be enumerated.

Necessity of a thorough canvass.

All buildings to be visited.—Be careful to include in your canvass every occupied building or other place of abode in your district. Before leaving any building make sure that you have included all persons living in that building. Inquire specifically whether any members of the family you are enumerating are temporarily absent, and whether there are any boarders or lodgers or servants in that family or any other persons in the same house. If any dwelling house or apartment is closed on the day of your visit, do not take it for granted that the place is occupied. Find out whether anyone is living there. In an apartment house you should consult the janitor to make sure that you have omitted no one.

If a building appears to be used for business purposes only, do not take it for granted that no one lives in it. Make inquiries.

Individuals out of families.—Be careful not to overlook persons living entirely alone, such as a person occupying a room or rooms in a public building, store, warehouse, factory, or stable, and having no other usual place of abode, or a person living alone in a cabin, hut, or tent; or a person sleeping on a river boat, canal boat, barge, etc., and having no other place of abode.

Method of canvassing a city block.—If your district is in a city or town, paint a system of house numbers on each block or square at a time. Do not go back and cross the streets. Begin each block at one corner, keep to the right, turn the corner, and go in and out of any court, alley, or passageway that may be included in it until the point of starting is reached. Be sure you have gone around and through the entire block before you leave it.

The arrows in the following diagram indicate the manner in which a block containing an interior court or place is to be canvassed.

(Note that block marked A is to be fully canvassed before work is undertaken in block B.)

Subdivisions of Districts.

Separate enumeration of subdivisions of your district.—Your enumeration district may comprise two or more different parts or subdivisions, such as:

(a) Two or more townships, districts, precincts, beats, wards, hundreds, or other divisions of a county, or parts of such divisions.

(b) The whole or part of an incorporated city, town, village, or borough, and territory outside such incorporated place.

(c) Two or more wards of a city, town, village, or borough, or parts thereof.

(d) Two or more incorporated cities, town, villages, or boroughs, or parts thereof.

In all such cases you should complete the enumeration of one such subdivision of your district before beginning the enumeration of another. You should begin the entries for each subdivision at the top of a new page of the population schedule (A or B side of the sheet, as the case may be), and at the end of the entries for that subdivision you should write the name of the subdivision, giving the name of the township, city, borough, village, ward, precinct, or other subdivision, as the case may be, and leave the remainder of the lines on that page blank. Do not leave a page partially blank except at the end of such subdivision.

Incorporated cities, towns, villages, or boroughs.—In each city specifically required to enumerate the inhabitants of any incorporated city, town, village, or borough shall be separately enumerated as to distinguish them from the inhabitants of the territory not included in such incorporated place. Therefore, if your enumeration district contains the whole or a part of an incorporated city, town, village, or borough, complete the enumeration of such incorporated place before beginning the enumeration of the remainder of your district.

In the same way, if two or more incorporated places (cities, villages, etc.) or parts of them are included in your enumeration district, the enumeration of one should be wholly completed before work in another is commenced.

Unincorporated place: The population of an unincorporated place should not be separated or distinguished from that of the township or other division in which it is located.

THE HEADING OF THE SCHEDULE.

Fill out the spaces at the top of each page above the heavy black line in accordance with the following explanations. Do this on each page before entering any names on that page.

Numbering sheets. Number the sheets of the population schedule in the exact order in which you fill them as you progress with the enumeration. Each sheet must be numbered the name on each side, as sheet No. 1A, 1B, 2A, 2B, etc.

Enumeration district. Enter at the head of each sheet, and on both sides, the number of your enumeration district and the number of the supervisor’s district in which your district is located.

State and county. Enter at the head of each sheet, and on both sides, the name of the state and of the county (or parish in Louisiana) in which your district is located.

Towship or other division of county. Write not only the name or number by which the division of the county is known, but also the name of the class as township, town, precinct, district, ward, etc., and the name of the county in which it is located. If there is no township (Centeralone is not enough); Washington town; Austin precinct; Precinct 10, etc.

In case, however, you are enumerating an incorporated city, town, village, or borough, which is not included in any township or other division of a county, write no name in this space, but make an X mark in it to indicate that the omission of the space was not accidental.

Name of incorporated place. Give both the proper name of the incorporated place and the name of the class by which it is known (as city, town, village, or borough). For example: Mount Pleasant city, Clinton town, Austin village.

Relation of incorporated place to township in which located. If any incorporated place forms a part of the township in which it is located, the name of the township as well as that of the incorporated place must be entered on the head of each sheet, in each space indicated for it. If, on the other hand, the incorporated place is independent of the township, precinct, or other division of a county, that fact should be indicated by inserting an X mark in the space for the name of the township or other division of county, as heretofore explained.

You can usually determine whether both the name of the township or other civil division of the county and the name of the incorporated place are to be entered in the heading of the schedule, by the answer to the following question: Do the inhabitants of this village vote at both village and township elections, or at village elections only? In the former case, they are inhabitants of both the township and of the village, and both names are to be entered. In the latter case they are inhabitants of the village but not of the township, and the name of the township must be omitted. Nonresident of this distinction will lead to the inclusion, with the population of a township or other subdivision of a county, of inhabitants who do not form a part of it, and for that reason special attention should be given to this instruction.

Ward of city. If the city, or other incorporated place, is divided into wards, enter the number or name of the ward in the space provided at the head of each sheet.

State of institution. If you are enumerating the population of an institution, such as prison, jail, almshouse, or asylum, enter the full name of the institution in the place indicated at the head of the schedule. In case only a portion of the total number of persons enumerated on that sheet of the schedule are in the institution, indicate the lines on which the names of the inmates of the institution appear, as ‘Jefferson County Almshouse, lines 25 to 50 inclusive.’

Date. If a page of the schedule is not completely filled at the end of a day’s work, do not leave it blank but draw a line in the left-hand margin of the schedule against the number of the last statement made, and on the next day, enter the following day enter the date in the margin opposite the name of the first person enumerated. For instance, if at the close of January you had enumerated 40 persons on a schedule, draw a heavy line in the margin against 40, and on the next morning write ‘Jan 8’ in the margin opposite 41, showing that you began work at that number. The heading of the schedule must show the two dates, viz., the 7th and 8th of January. This will assist you in filling accurately your daily report as to the number of persons enumerated.

PLACE OF ABODE.

Column 1. Street, avenue, road, etc.—This column applies to cities and all other localities where the streets or roads are known by names. Enter the street or number or lot number. Write the name of the street, avenue, court, place, alley, or road lengthwise, in the manner shown on the illustrative example.

The places at which you begin and end work on any street are to be marked by heavy lines running through (-----) across the first and second columns. (See illustrative example, line 8.)

Column 2. House number or farm, etc. Write the house number in each house, and ‘one’ if there is only one person enumerated in the house. If it is in the rear of another one, and has a number of its own, give it the same number as the front house and add the word ‘rear.’

Write ‘Farm’ in this column, opposite the name of the first person enumerated in the house, if the family is living on a farm (as defined in the agricultural instructions), including the families of both farm operators and farm laborers.

Write both the house number and ‘Farm’ if the farm on which the family is living is located on the edge of a city and has a house number.

‘Farm’ is also to be entered for the house of a farm laborer and his family residing on a small parcel of land not within the limits of an incorporated place.

Write ‘X’ for a house that has no number and is not situated on a farm or on a parcel of land as described above.

Column 3. Number of rooms. This column contains the number of rooms in each dwelling house, and should not be repeated for other persons or other families living in the same house. (See illustrative example, line 9, and omission of number at line 13 for second family in the same house.)

Dwelling house defined. A dwelling house, for census purposes, is a place in which, at the time of the census, one or more persons regularly sleep. It need not be a house in the usual sense of the term. It may be a room, den, attic, garret, basement, shed, a loft over a stable, a boat, a tent, a freight car, or the like. A building like a tenement or apartment house counts as only one dwelling house, no matter how many persons or families live in it. A building with a partition wall through it and a front door for each of the two parts, however, counts as two dwelling houses. But a two-apartment house with one apartment over the other and a separate front door for each apartment counts as only one dwelling house.

Column 4. Number of family in order of visitation. In this column number the families in your district in the order in which they are enumerated, entering the number opposite the name of the head of each family, as shown on the illustrative example. Thus the number 1 is entered opposite the name of the head of the first family, and the number 2, against the second, and so on, until the enumeration of your district is completed.

Family defined. The word ‘family,’ for census purposes, has a somewhat different application from what it has in popular usage. It means group of persons that sleep in the same dwelling place. The persons constituting this group may or may not be related by ties of kinship, but if they live together forming one household they should be considered as one family. Thus a servant who sleeps in the house or on the premises should be included with the members of the family for which he or she works. Again, a boarder or lodger should be included with the members of the family with which he lodges, but a person who boards in one pacc and lodges or rooms at another should be returned as a member of the family at the place where he lodges or rooms.

It should be noted, however, that two or more families may occupy the same dwelling house, and yet separate portions of the same house household keeping is entirely separate, they should be returned as separate families.

Boarding-house families. All the occupants and employees of a hotel, boarding house, or lodging house, if that is their usual place of abode, make up, for census purposes, a single family. But in an apartment or tenement house, there will be as many families as there are separate occupied apartments or tenements, even though use may be made of a common café or restaurant.

Institutional families. The officials and inmates of an institution who live in the institution buildings form one family. But any officers or employees who sleep in detached houses or separate dwellings containing no inmates should be returned as separate families.

Household living alone. The census family may likewise consist of a single person. Thus a clerk in a store who regularly sleeps there is to be returned as a family and the store as his dwelling place.
40. Name and relation.—Enter the name of each child alive on January 1, 1920, who is with the family or in the dwelling place for which the enumeration is being made. In determining who is to be included with the family, follow instructions in five preceding paragraphs.

Column 5. Name of each person enumerated.—Enter the name of each child alive on January 1, 1920, who is with the family or in the dwelling place for which the enumeration is being made. In determining who is to be included with the family, follow instructions in five preceding paragraphs.

Column 6. Relationship to head of family.—Designate the head of the family, whether husband or father, widow, or unmarried person of either sex, by the word "head"; for other members of a family write "wife, father, mother, son, daughter, grandson, daughter-in-law, uncle, aunt, nephew, niece, brother, sister, servant, etc., according to the particular relationship which the person bears to the head of the family.

Column 7. Home owned or rented.—This question is to be answered only opposite the name of the head of each family, and only relates to the home or dwelling in which they are living on the date of the enumeration. If the home is owned, write "O" in the column for the head of each family. If a dwelling is occupied by more than one family it is the home of all of them, and the question should be answered with reference to the whole family living in the dwelling.

Column 8. If owned, whether free or mortgaged.—This question applies only to the homes classified in Column 7 as owned homes and does not apply to the homes classified as mortgaged. Write "O" for mortgage free and "M" for mortgaged. These entries should be made opposite the name of the head of the family.

Column 9. Sex.—Write "M" for male and "F" for female.

Column 10. Color or race.—Write "W" for white; "B" for black; "M" for mulatto; "F" for Indian; "C" for Chinese; "J" for Japanese; "F" for Filipino; "H" for Hindu; "K" for Korean. For all persons falling within one of these classes, write "O" in the column for the left-hand margin of the schedule the race of the person so indicated.

Column 11. Age at last birthday.—This question calls for the age in completed years at last birthday. Remember, however, that the age question, like all other questions on the schedule, relates to January 1, 1920, and not the date a person was born. For persons under the age of 1 year on January 1, the census day, is 17 years, 11 months, and 25 days should be returned simply as 17, because that is his age at last birthday prior to January 1, 1920, although at the time of your visit he may have completed 18 years.

Age in round numbers.—In many cases persons will report ages in round numbers, like 30 or 45, or "about 30" or "about 45," when that is not the exact age. Therefore, when an age ending in 0 or 5 is reported, you should ascertain whether it is the exact age. If, however, it is impossible to get the exact age, enter the approximate age rather than return the age as unknown.

Column 12. Single, married, widowed, or divorced.—Write "S" for single or unmarried, "M" for married, "D" for divorced, and "W" for widowed person.

Column 13. Year of immigration to the United States.—This question applies to all foreign-born persons, male and female, of whatever age. It should be answered, therefore, for every person whose birthplace was in a foreign country (see column 19). Enter the year in which the person came to the United States. If he has been in the United States more than once, give the year of his first entry.

Column 14. Naturalized or alien.—This question applies to all foreign-born persons, male and female, of whatever age. It should be answered, therefore, for every person whose birthplace was in a foreign country (see column 19). For a foreign-born male 21 years of age and over, or a foreign-born unmarried female of that age, write "N" (for naturalized), if he or she has been a citizen, either by naturalization, or by taking out second or final papers of naturalization, or by becoming an American citizen and having taken out first papers. Write "A" (for alien), if he, or she, has not become a citizen and has not taken out any papers of declaration of intention to become a citizen.

Column 15. If naturalized, year of naturalization.—For every person reported in column 14 as "N" (naturalized), enter in column 15 the year in which final papers of naturalization were issued. In case of persons naturalized through the act of a parent, enter the date of the parent's naturalization.

Column 16. Attended school any time since September 1, 1919.—Write "Yes" for a person who attended school, college, or any educational institution at any time since September 1, 1915, and "No" for anyone who has not attended school since that date. For persons aged 5 or over write "Yes" if they actually attended school, otherwise leave the column blank.

Column 17. Whether able to read.—Write "Yes" for a person 10 years of age and over who can read any language, whether English, Spanish, or some other, and write "No" for such a person who can not read any language. For persons under 10 years of age, leave the column blank.

Column 18. Whether able to write.—Write "Yes" for a person 10 years of age and over who can write any language, whether English, Spanish, or some other, and "No" for such a person who cannot write any language. For persons under 10 years of age, leave the column blank.

1 Foreign-born persons include all those born outside of the United States or of its outlying territories: that is, Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, Philippine Islands, Guam, American Samoa, Panama Canal Zone, and Virgin Islands of the United States. of his mother, but knows that she was born in the United States, write United States rather than "unknown.”

Column 24. Mother tongue of mother.—If the mother of the person you are enumerating was born in a foreign country, ask for her mother tongue and enter it in column 24, following the instructions given in reporting the mother tongue of persons. If the mother was born in the United States or any of its outlying territories, do not ask her mother tongue.

ABILITY TO SPEAK ENGLISH.
Column 25. Whether able to speak English.—Write "Yes," for a person 20 years of age and over who can speak English, and "No," for such person to which no English is under 20 years of age, leave the column blank.

OCCUPATION.
Column 26. Trade or profession.—An entry should be made in this column for every person enumerated. The entry should be either (1) the occupation pursued—that is, the word or words which most accurately indicate the particular kind of work done by which the person enumerated earns money or a money equivalent, as physician, carpenter, dressmaker, laborer, newsboy; or (2) none (that is, no occupation). The entry made should be the same for all persons who follow no gainful occupation.

Persons retired or temporarily unemployed.—Care should be taken in making the return for persons who on account of old age, permanent invalidism, or otherwise are no longer following their occupation. Such persons may desire to return the occupations formerly followed, which would be incorrect. If living on their own income, or if they are supported by other persons or institutions, the return should be none. On the other hand, persons out of employment when visited by the enumerator may claim these, or they may have no occupation, when the fact is that they usually have an occupation but merely happen to be idle or unemployed at the time of the visit. In such cases the return should be the occupation followed when the person is employed.

Persons having two occupations.—If a person has two occupations, return only the more important one—that is, the one from which he gets the more money. If you cannot learn that, return the one at which he spends the more time. For example: Return a man as farmer if he gets more of his income from farming, although he may also follow the occupation of a clergyman or preacher; but return him as a clergyman if he gets more of his income from that occupation.

Column 27. Industry.—An entry should be made in this column in all cases where the entry in column 26 has been that of an occupation. But when the entry in column 26 is none, leave column 27 blank. The entry in column 26, when it refers to an industry, or the business, or the place in which this person works, as cotton mill, general farm, dry-goods store, insurance office, bank, etc. (See also illustrations on p. 1384.) Never enter in this column such indefinite terms as "mill," "farm," "store," "Jones and Company," etc.

The purpose of columns 26 and 27 is thus to bring out, on the one hand, in column 26, the specific occupation or work performed, if any, by each person enumerated, and on the other, in column 27, the character of the industry or place in which such work is performed.

Farm workers.—Return a person in charge of a farm as a farmer, whether he owns it or operates it as a tenant, renter, or cropper; or who manages a farm for some one else for wages or a salary should be reported as a farm manager or farm overseer; and a person who works on a farm for some one else, but not as a manager, tenant, or cropper, should be reported as a farm laborer.

Women doing farm work.—A woman who does farm work in her own house and having no other employment, the entry in column 26 should be none. But a woman working at housework for wages should be returned in column 26 as housekeeper, servant, cook, or chambermaid, as the case may be; and the entry should be the kind of place where she works, as private family, hotel, or boarding house. Or, if a woman, in addition to doing housework in her own house, regularly earns money by some other occupation, whether pursued in her own home or outside, that occupation should be reported in columns 26 and 27. For instance, a woman who regularly takes in washing should be reported as laundress or washerwoman, followed in column 27 by "at home."

Women doing farm work.—A woman who works regularly and most of the time at such work, the return should be farm laborer—home farm; farm laborer—working out; laborer—garden; laborer—dairy farm; laborer—stock farm; or laborer—poultry yard, as the case may be. Of course, a woman who herself operates or runs a farm or plantation should be reported as "laborer" and not as a "farm laborer."

Children on farms.—In the case of children who work regularly for their own parents on a farm, the entry in column 26 should be "farm laborer" and in column 27 "home farm," but for children who work as laborers for others, the entry in column 27 should be "working out."

Children working for parents.—Children who work for their parents at home rely on general household work, on chores, or at odd times on other work, should be reported as having no occupation. Those, however, who somewhat regularly assist their parents in the performance of work other than household work or chores should be reported as having an occupation.

Keeping boarders.—Keeping boarders or lodgers should be returned as an occupation if the person engaged in it relies upon it as his (or her) principal means of support or principal source of income. In that case the return should be "keeper—boarding house or keeper—lodging house." If, however, a family keeps a few boarders or guests merely as a means of supplementing or eking out the earnings or income obtained from other occupations or from other sources, no one in the family should be returned as a boarding or lodging house keeper.

Officers, employees, and inmates of institutions or homes.—For an officer or regular employee of an institution or home, such as an asylum, penitentiary, jail, reform school, convict camp, state farm worked by convicts, etc., return the occupation followed in the institution. For an inmate of such institution, if regularly employed, return the occupation pursued in the institution, whether the inmate be at productive labor or at other duties, such as cooking, scrubbing, laundry work, etc.; but if an inmate is not regularly employed—that is, has no specific duties or work to perform—write none in column 26.

Doctors, druggists, etc.—In the case of a doctor or physician, enter in column 27 the class to which he belongs, as medical, orthopedic, chiropractic, etc.

Engineers.—Distinguish carefully the different kinds of engineers by stating the full descriptive titles, as civil engineer, electro engineer, locomotive engineer, mechanical engineer, mining engineer, stationary engineer, etc.

Workers attending school.—In the case of a person who is at work and also attends a school or college, enter the occupation followed in columns 26 and 27, and indicate the fact of school or college attendance in column 16.

Avoid general or indefinite terms.—Give the occupation and industry precisely. For example, return a worker in a coal mine as a miner—coal mine, laborer—coal mine, driver—coal mine, etc., as the case may be.

The term "laborer" should be avoided if any more precise statement of the occupation can be secured. Employees in factories and mills, for example, usually have some definite designation, as weaver, roller, puddler, etc. Where the term "laborer" is used, be careful to return only the industry, "laborer—factory, etc."

Avoid in all cases the use of the word "mechanic," but give the exact occupation, as carpenter, painter, machinist, etc.

Distinguish carefully between retail and wholesale merchants, as retail merchant—dry-goods; wholesale merchant—dry-goods.

A store owner is not a "clerk" whereas a mere bookkeeper or cashier is, and should be reported as such, and not as a clerk.

Distinguish a traveling salesman from a salesman in a store; the former preferably should be reported as a "commercial traveler."

You are asked to report a person’s occupation just as he expresses it. Always find out exactly the kind of work he does and the industry, business, or place in which he works, and so state it. For example, a person says that he is "in business," find out what branch of business and kind of work he does or what position he holds.

Illustrations of how to return occupations.—The following illustrations, in addition to those given in the illustrative example, will indicate the method of returning some of the common occupations and industries; they will also suggest to you distinctions which you should make in other cases.

Column 26. Employer, salary or wage worker, or working on own account.—For one employing persons, other than domestic servants, in transacting his own business, write "E." For a person who works for wages or a salary, write "W." For a gainful worker who is neither an employer nor a salary or wage worker, write "O," or "own account." For all persons returned as having no occupation, leave the column blank.

Employer.—An employer is one who employs helpers, other than domestic servants, in transacting his own business. The term employer does not include the superintendent, agent, manager, or other person employed to manage an establishment or business; and it does not include the foreman of a room, the boss of a gang, or the coal miner who hires his helper. All such should be returned as employees, for, while any one of these may employ persons, none of them does so in transacting his own business.

Salary or wage worker.—Any person who works for a salary or wages and is subject to the control and direction of an employer, in salary or wage worker, whether he be president of a large corporation or only a day laborer, whether he be paid in money or in kind; and whether he be employed by his own parent or by another.

Working on own account.—A person who has a gainful occupation and is neither an employer nor a salary or wage worker, is considered to be working on his own account. Such persons are the independent workers. They neither pay nor receive salaries or regular wages. Examples of this class are: Farmers and the owner of small establishments who do not employ persons, professional men who work for fees and employ no helpers; and, generally speaking, hucksters, peddlers, newsboys, bootblacks, etc.

FARM SCHEDULE NUMBER.

Column 29. Number of farm schedule.—If the head or any member of the family operates a farm, enter in this column the number of the agricultural schedule filled out for that farm. Make this entry opposite the name of the member of the family operating the farm.

SUPPLEMENTAL SCHEDULE FOR THE BLIND AND FOR DEAF-MUTES.

This schedule is supplemental to the population schedule and is used as a means of obtaining the addresses of all persons found by the enumerator to be blind or deaf-mute. For identification purposes the sex, color, and race, as recorded on the population schedule, are added.

When to be used.—Upon the completion of the enumeration of each family, be sure to ask before leaving the house whether any one among the persons you have enumerated is either blind or totally deaf. If so, enter the name, post-office address, and other facts called for on the supplemental schedule, in accordance with the instructions printed on that schedule. This person comes within the class of blind or deaf-mutes there defined.
You have been furnished, in the general book of instructions (Form 9-246), with all directions concerning the work in your district. Definition and special instructions are furnished in the head, "What is to be enumerated in your district," and to the conditions under which different classes of persons or single individuals are to be included or excluded from the enumeration in your district, and equally, the special instructions are also furnished there, under the heading "Necessity of a thorough canvass," as to the method of canvassing your district and the manner of procedure where families or individuals are "out" at the time of your first visit.

These instructions are to be carefully followed, but as a special aid to your work two supplemental blanks are provided as follows:

(a) Enumerator's street book.
(b) Individual census slip.

The purpose for which each of these blanks is intended is fully explained in the following paragraphs. You will find that the proper use of these blanks will not only save you much time but help you to cover your district in a methodical and orderly manner.

ENUMERATOR'S STREET BOOK.

The purpose of the street book, which takes the place of the memorandum referred to in paragraph 73 of the general instructions, is to enable you—

1. To furnish a record of any house, apartment, building, or other dwelling place at which you did not secure at your first visit all of the information required to be entered on the population schedule concerning any family or person (or persons) living there and which you must, therefore, visit a second time;
2. To account for any vacant lot or public square, for which there are no residents to be reported;
3. To account for any vacant lot or public square, which in the course of your enumeration, does not have a house number for which no population can be made.

You are not expected to make any entry in the street book for those houses or other dwelling places at which you secure a complete report on your first visit. But you are required to account, either on the population schedule or in the street book, for each and every building or vacant space within the limits of your enumeration district, so as to provide the means for ascertaining the thoroughness of your house-to-house canvass and the manner in which your work has been performed in securing complete return of all the families and persons actually living within the boundaries of your enumeration district. (See illustrative example.)

As stated in paragraph 68 of the general instructions, you are expected to canvas your district by blocks, and the entries in the street book should follow strictly the order in which the enumeration is made.

This street book is to be turned in to your supervisor with your completed work, for his information and guidance in determining the thoroughness and care with which you have canvassed your district.

ILLUSTRATIVE EXAMPLE.

The illustrative example on page 1386 contains sample entries showing the manner in which the street book is to be filled. The examples given do not purport to account for all the buildings requiring entries likely to be found on any given block, but are intended simply to indicate the proper entries to be made in a variety of specific cases, such as every enumerator will encounter, and to serve as a general guide for making the proper entries to cover other cases of like character.

In the imaginary case stated, the examples given have reference to parts of two days' work—January 2 and 3—and the enumerator, before beginning work, is supposed to have made the entries called for at the top of the street book page as follows: Against "S. D.," he writes the abbreviation of his supervisor's district, as, for example, 4th Calif., 7th Ind., 2d Conn., or R. 1.; against "E. D.," the number of his enumeration district, as 345; and, in the space provided, the name of the head of the family, such as Francisco, Indianapolis, New Haven, Providence, etc. The different cases illustrated by the sample entries are briefly explained in the following paragraphs:

The first case for which the enumerator is required to make an entry in the street book is that of a laundry, situated at 906 Second avenue, where he finds a house number 345, and the building is used solely for business purposes and that no one sleeps on the premises. He therefore proceeds to enter, in column 1, lengthwise; the name of the street; in column 2, the house number; in column 4, the words "Laundry"; in column 5, the words "No residents," thus giving in the street book, in concise form, the reason why no entry is made on the population schedule for that house number. (See, also, similar entries for building 6, 7, 9, 10, 11, and 12.)

Proceeding on his work, the enumerator next finds, at 914 Second avenue, a house closed because of the absence of the family for an indefinite period. He is unable to secure complete and reliable information from any person in the neighborhood, but learns that the head of the family, William Smith, has an office at 46 State street. He accordingly makes the proper entries in the street book, as herein illustrated (line 2), thus accounting for the absence of any report of population for that particular house number. (See, also, similar entry at line 11 for "Apartment closed," and note entry of apartment number in column 3.)

Between 918 and 922 Second avenue the enumerator finds a vacant lot, for which he accounts in the street book, at line 3, by entering the missing house number (929), and writing the words "Vacant lot."

Between 924 and 926 Second avenue the enumerator is unable to secure full information concerning a man who lodges with the family living there, and under his instructions in paragraph 9 he leaves an individual census slip (Form 9-301). A record of its delivery is then made in the street book, at line 4, and also the usual entries of the street and house number, by writing the words "Lodger out" and the name of the lodger followed by the words "Slip left" in parentheses; and from the record it further appears that the slip was duly collected at a later visit and the entries made on sheet 1 and line 28 of the population schedule, as shown in column 7. (See, also, similar entry at line 12.)

As shown by the record at line 13 of the street book, the enumerator, after writing his work on the second day, finds at 301 Third street a vacant house, which he learns by inquiry has not been occupied since December 1 and for which he makes the necessary entries in the street book. (See, also, similar entry at line 19 for "Vacant apartment," and note entry of apartment number in column 3.)

The final entries at lines 20 are illustrative of the record to be made in the case of a family "out"—that is, only temporarily absent—by the time of the enumerator's visit, as provided in paragraph 70 of the general instructions. In the imaginary case given, the enumerator makes the required record, in connection with the street, house number, apartment number, and date of visit, by writing the "Family out" and the name of the head of the family, which he learns by inquiry at the adjoining apartment; and, from the record in column 7, it further appears that a full report for this family was secured by a later visit and the information entered on sheet 2 and lines 10-15 of the population schedule.

INDIVIDUAL CENSUS SLIP.

The individual census slip (Form 9-301) is to be used by you in securing information concerning persons—boarders, lodgers, and the like—who are absent during the day, or who from the nature of their duties can not be seen personally, and for whom the required details can not be supplied by others.

The individual census slip is enclosed in an envelope (Form 9-266) addressed "Census Enumerator," and, before using, you must make the proper entries in the spaces numbered 1 to 4 in the heading of the slip. In all cases where its use is considered practicable and helpful, leave the slip thus enclosed with the landlord or lady of the house in which the person resides and make the proper entry in the street book (see lines 4 and 12 of illustrative example). The slip is to be filled by the lodger or other person for whom it is intended, in accordance with the request and instructions printed on it, resealed and sealed, and is to be called for by you at a later visit. This is the only case where the individual census slip are then to be transferred by you to the regular population schedule, as provided in the general instructions (see paragraph 72) relating to "Individuals out on first visit."

The use of this slip will not only aid you materially in your work, but the record in the street book will provide a systematic check on the enumeration of this class of persons and thereby prevent their omission, as might otherwise be the case.

The special instructions to Enumerators in Cities and the Enumerator's Street Book were bound together in a separate pamphlet which was supplied to the enumerators in 30 large cities. The Enumerator's Street Book consisted of 45 pages rules and headed as shown by the illustrative example.

INDIVIDUAL CENSUS SLIP.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE,
BUREAU OF THE CENSUS,

Your absence during the day, or the nature of your duties, prevents the census enumerator from obtaining from you personally the information required by the act of Congress approved March 3, 1919, which provides for taking the FOURTEENTH CENSUS OF THE UNITED STATES.

You are requested, therefore, to answer the inquiries on the second and third pages of this slip, and to inclose it, when filled out, in the accompanying envelope, which should be sealed by you. It will be called for by the census enumerator, who will transfer the entries to the regular schedule used in his work.

As the enumerator is required by law to obtain this information within a specified time, your prompt compliance with this request will be appreciated, and you will thus aid in securing a complete and accurate census of all the inhabitants of your city within the period required for the completion of the enumeration.

Very respectfully,
SAM. L. ROGERS,
Director of the Census.
